Costume Design, Modeling Added to El Camino Program

New courses in costume design, sewing and modeling are being added to the El Camino College curriculum in September, according to Dr. Lyle Tussing, director of instruction.

Classes in clothing design and construction will be offered both for women desiring to prepare for jobs in the clothing industry and for hom-makers who wish to make their own clothes. Evening classes, scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, are planned primarily for homemakers interested in designing and making clothes for themselves and their children.

A day class, to be held Monday through Friday from 1 to 4 p.m., is designed for young ladies planning to enter the clothing industry. The class is offered as part of a two-year course preparing the student for a position as stylist, buyer, dress-shop manager, draper, patternmaker, salesperson, fashion writer, designer or dressmaker. Classes in interior decorating, art, English, psychology and business are included in the two-year program leading to an Associate of Arts degree.

Both day and evening classes will cover use and care of power sewing machines, garment cutting, construction and finishing, alterations and restyling, pattern-making, fitting, clothing drafting, textiles and fabrics, styling and costume assembling.

A new modeling class is scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. This course will provide a year's training for women who want to develop social skills and personality. The first semester will include training in personality improvement, carriage, and study of clothing. The second semester's work will provide a background for those intending to do professional modeling, but it is also intended for other students who desire to improve their carriage and poise.

Both modeling and costume design classes will be under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia Smith. Besides considerable teaching experience, Mrs. Smith has had nine years' experience in the commercial dressmaking, custom making, and clothes manufacturing fields. Her recent trade experience includes four years as designer with My Best Bib and Tucker, two years in custom making with Marine and a year as assistant designer for Lois Zagri.

Power and home dressmaking machines are being added to the college equipment in preparation for opening of the fall semester on September 14. Registration is scheduled from September 11 to 13.

Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Bauman returned recently from a vacation in Canada. They flew to Lake Louise, and spent some time in Banff and Jasper National Park. At Calgary they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Blodgett, formerly of Torrance, who entertained them for a week in their Edmonton home.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Miller returned recently from a two weeks' vacation in Oregon. En route they spent a few days at Santa Cruz.

Noted Pianist Talks At Carson Home Salon

Dr. Emil Enna, noted pianist, composer and music editor, was guest speaker at the first invitational salon sponsored by the San Pedro Philharmonic and Artists Association at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Carson, 1313 Silius Ave. Mrs. Carson is president of the sponsoring group.

Philharmonic members gathered to hear the music notable draw from his almost three-quarters of a century in music circles.

Feature of the evening was W. Madison Taylor, resident tenor, singing Dr. Enna's Lord's Prayer composition. The composer served as piano accompanist.

Assisting Mrs. Carson with the hostess duties were Mrs. W. Madison Taylor, Clarke B. Walsworth, Anton Despot and Elmer L. Higgs. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. McLachlan, daughter and son-in-law of the guest speaker, with whom the composer is staying while on vacation from his Oregon home.
